Role of Gold Downplayed by Connally

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary John B. Connally says gold should lose its glitter as a world currency standard, declaring that a dollar-devaluing boost in its price would fail to break the international monetary deadlock.

But, while downplaying the role of gold as the keystone to the world monetary system, Connally left the devaluation issue unsettled, dodging a direct question on whether it is a negotiable item in international discussions.

The gold-price question dominated as delegates to the 118-nation International Monetary Fund gathered today for what may turn out to be its most important meeting in its 27-year history.

President Nixon ripped the foundation from the monetary system by cutting the dollar loose from its tie with gold on Aug. 15. The President also imposed a 10-per-cent import surcharge in an effort to reduce the nation's growing balance-of-payments deficit.

"The United States has no hangup, no fixation, with gold," Connally told newsmen Sunday. "We're not committed to the mythology of gold. We would hope that the role of gold in the IMF would indeed be diminished."

The secretary, however, may find that wishful thinking for the moment. In Europe and Japan, there is almost unanimous pressure for a dollar devaluation through raising the price of gold to help achieve currency realignments.

But the United States appeared to win at least one concession on the gold-price question at a meeting of the "Group of Ten," the finance ministers and central bankers from the major non-Communist nations.

In hammering out a three-sided approach to resolving the monetary impasse by the end of the year, the officials focused on currency realignment as the top priority without mentioning the price of gold.

The major U.S. trading partners also appeared to have won a concession from the American delegation. One of the key issues agreed upon for discussion this year is elimination of the import surcharge.

President Nixon said last week the United States will not remove the surcharge until a permanent solution to the world monetary system is found.

Connally said the United States is prepared to remove the surcharge "when we become convinced that a formula is reached that would rectify our balance-of-payments deficit."

Heavy Enemy Attacks Hurt S. Vietnamese

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese forces mounted heavy attacks today along South Vietnam's border with Cambodia for the second day, reportedly inflicting heavy losses on South Vietnamese forces.

Two U.S. aircraft supported the South Vietnamese were shot down with five Americans wounded, the U.S. Command said.

Field reports said the South Vietnamese lost at least 20 men killed, about 100 wounded and a number of artillery pieces, tanks and armored cars destroyed, some of them apparently by sappers who broke into the government positions hurling satchel charges.

The South Vietnamese Command reported that 92 North Vietnamese troops were killed, many of them by U.S. helicopter gunships, fighter-bombers and artillery.

On the outskirts of Saigon, two Viet Cong sappers were detected attempting to penetrate an ammunition depot near Tan Son Nhut air base, South Vietnamese headquarters said. One of them was killed and the second escaped, a communique said. A series of explosions ripped through a section of the dump a week ago, destroying 300 tons of ammunition.

Viet Cong sappers used a mine to blow up a train traveling from Qui Nhon to Tuy Hoa on the central coast. The Saigon Command said one civilian was killed and six were wounded, adding that the locomotive was destroyed and three cars were damaged.

U.S. officers said the attacks along the Cambodian border and the increase in sapper activity are probably timed to take advantage of political unrest and divisiveness among

Reports Indicate Much of North Vietnam Rice Crop Ruined by Floods

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence reports that floods have destroyed about 800,000 tons of North Vietnam's rice, 10 per cent of this year's crop.

At the same time, American analysts said, the Russians find themselves with insufficient reserves of bread grains because significant stocks have spoiled under improper storage and because much more wheat is being fed to livestock in a campaign to ease a domestic meat shortage in the Soviet Union.

U.S. sources say this all means the Kremlin may have to raise its own wheat imports to meet the requirements of its people, with North Vietnam's food problem an added burden.

In addition to ruining North Vietnamese rice, the heavy rains and floods over the past several months reportedly have set back construction of a new truck fuel pipeline between the main port of Haiphong and the important supply transshipment route. The pipeline is being built by the Soviet Union. U.S. sources say this all means the Kremlin may have to raise its own wheat imports to meet the requirements of its people, with North Vietnam's food problem an added burden.

Russians Branded Spies by British Enjoyed a Special Kind of Life

By ANTHONY COLLINGS
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Many of the Russians branded as spies by Britain live near Karl Marx's grave in the kind of comfort he never enjoyed.

The Soviet officials live on an exclusive housing development called Holly Lodge Estate, complete with Tudor-style apartment buildings, expensive houses, tree-shaded lawns, rambling rosebushes and a spectacular view of London.

The Russians keep to themselves on their hillside estate in the Highgate District and usually turn down invitations to local parties.

English neighbors occasionally hear them singing Russian songs at parties or see the men playing soccer at nearby Hampstead Heath while the wives and children walk around Highgate ponds. Among the 105 diplomats and other Russian officials ordered expelled on spy charges, those at Holly Lodge Estate packed their bags over the weekend and—as usual—kept to themselves.

Some 50 Russian families live on the estate, once owned by Baroness Burdett-Coutts and now dubbed "Little Moscow." It's near the Highgate Cemetery grave of Marx, the German-born father of communism, who died penniless in 1883 after living in scruffy working-class parts of London.

The Russians living in fashionable Highgate include N. V. Nikitkin, a banker who drives to work from his mansion in a big Daimler limousine.

Speculation That Pope to Abdicate

By DAVID MAZZARELLA
Associated Press Writer
VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican says it is a "fatuous deduction" to think Pope Paul VI will abdicate, but it has confirmed the underlying causes of the speculation—the agonies and frustrations of Paul's reign.

An extraordinary broadcast by Vatican radio on Pope Paul's 74th birthday Sunday also implicitly denied recurring rumors that he is seriously ill.

But it indicated he is tired and likened his life and work to "martyrdom."

Although Vatican spokesmen have always dismissed rumors that the Pope was ill or planned to give up the papacy, never before had an official organ of the Holy See dealt with these matters.

The broadcast, beamed around the world, was seen as an attempt to reassure Roman Catholics that Paul's papacy is not near an end. But it made no attempt to hide the problems being faced by the Pope on the eve of another test of his strength—the World Synod of Bishops. It opens here Thursday and will deal with two of the most difficult matters before the Church—the priestly celibacy and the role of Catholics in bringing peace and justice.

The radio broadcast said: "The responsibility of the vicar of Christ is by itself sufficient to wear down the energies of a person in normal times," it said. "In a convulsed time like the present, which seems to shake every institution at the foundation, the task becomes simply debilitating. It resembles martyrdom."

It said rival factions put "ruthless, unceasing" pressure on the Pope.

The Pope is known to suffer greatly from challenges to his authority and divisions in the Church. It is said that he wept under the great pressure of criticisms of his ban on birth control devices three years ago.

Last Christmas he revealed his "oppressive sense of sadness" and "profound sadness" over various problems.

Warm, Humid Weather for Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Warm, humid weather triggered showers and thundershowers in parts of Arkansas Sunday, but the National Weather Service said most of the state should bask in sunshine through Tuesday.

Temperatures were in the upper 80s and 90s Sunday over most of the state. The shower activity, which was mostly confined to the eastern part of the state generally amounted to less than one quarter inch.

Skies cleared over the state Sunday night, but some scattered clouds drifted back into the area early today.

The extended outlook called for fair and warm through Wednesday with isolated afternoon showers, turning cooler Thursday and Friday.

The high temperature through Wednesday were expected to be in the 80s and 90s with low in the 60s and 70s.

Following the parade the show gets underway at Fair park. Monday is designated FFA Day and this event will be climaxed with a Jamboree in the Coliseum Monday night at 8 p.m.

On Tuesday the judging of cattle begins and the big event of the night will be the selection of Queen of the Show at 8 p.m. in the Coliseum. This too is a free event.

Wednesday marks the judging of swine and dairy cattle and the annual Quarterhorse Show begins at 1 p.m. The finals of this event will be at 8 p.m. in the Coliseum and it is free to the public.

Thursday opens judging in the fat steer classes and this is designated school day. All rides will be at reduced prices for school children until 6 p.m. At 8 p.m. the first performances of the rodeo, produced by Wing Ranch of Bogata, Texas, will be held in the Coliseum at 8 o'clock.

The rodeo will continue through Friday and Saturday nights with prizes given away both nights. Saturday night an automobile will be given away at the rodeo.

Minimum Wage Bill Hike to Be Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Labor Committee says his panel will start next week to draw up a bill that will boost the minimum wage to $2.25 even though such an increase may run afoul of President Nixon's economic program.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., said in a statement Sunday the committee "will have to see what impact the President's program will have on our legislation when it is announced."

"But," he said, "we still see a strong need for a higher minimum wage. The present minimum does not even provide a poverty-level income." The present minimum wage is $1.60 an hour.

Congress almost certainly will not complete action on such a bill before the present wage-price freeze expires Nov. 13. But there have been indications Nixon's Phase 2 of the program will include wage stabilization measures.

Under the Williams' bill, the new floor would take effect in two steps, $2 after 60 days and $2.25 one year after that.

Grand Larceny Conviction Is Upheld

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court upheld today the grand larceny conviction of M. M. Powell in connection with the theft of more than $22,000 from a federal agent.

The high court unanimously rejected Powell's contentions that Polk County Circuit Court Judge Bobby Steel erred by refusing to grant a motion by defense lawyers requesting that the state identify the owners of the money allegedly stolen.

Powell's attorneys argued that without knowing who owned the money, they could not properly interrogate prospective jurors about any affiliation that the juror might have with the owner of the money.

Associate Justice Conley Byrd, who wrote the unanimous opinion, also said the court rejected Powell's argument that the evidence did not support the verdict and that the trial was not fair because the prosecuting attorney commented on the fact that Powell did not testify.

Richard P. Daniels, a special investigator with the Alcoholic, Tobacco and Firearms Division of the U. S. Treasury Department, went to Mena on Dec. 19, 1969 with $23,000 to purchase some firearms that allegedly had been stolen and transported in interstate commerce.

Daniels testified that the money was partly his own, partly federal funds, but mostly funds furnished through the Arkansas State Police.

Marion Burton, who was executive secretary to former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, told newsmen that Rockefeller provided money to help finance the investigation.

Burton would not say how much Rockefeller provided.

Daniels testified that he met Powell in a car in Mena and that Powell switched $22,650 from the box Daniels brought it in to a canvas bag. When Daniels objected, Powell pitched

Nixon Meets Jap Emperor in Alaska

FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — President Nixon and Japan's 70-year-old Emperor Hirohito stood stiffly at attention as red-jacketed U.S. Marines, heirs to men who fought Japan on dozens of Pacific battlefields in World War II, passed in review.

Nixon and the Emperor—the first reigning Japanese monarch ever to leave his homeland—met for more than an hour on American soil last Sunday night. For those present, it clearly was a moving and historic moment, symbolizing the postwar alliance of onetime enemies.

As Hirohito later boarded his American-made jet transport for an over-the-pole flight to Copenhagen, the Alaskan night sky was illuminated brilliantly by a spectacular display of the Northern Lights.

Before the Emperor's arrival Nixon attended a reception at the anchorage home of Walter J. Hickel, the man he dismissed as interior secretary less than a year ago.

Nixon made an 8,140-mile round trip to Alaska to become the first U.S. president ever to meet with an emperor of Japan.

Their talks were general in nature—a circumstance dictated by the Emperor's position as one whose influence on Japanese policy can be exercised only in subtle ways.

There was no immediate word on the content of any of the talks, however, and no communique was issued at the conclusion of the royal visit.

The President, welcoming Hirohito at Elmendorf Air Force Base, said:

"Your journey to Alaska symbolizes Japan's growing position in world affairs. We meet in a place which is approximately the same distance between Tokyo and Washington D.C. This fact reminds us that for the past quarter century that we have built a structure of political, economic and cultural ties which spans the space between our two countries."

Nixon said he hoped their meeting would "demonstrate for all the years to come a determination of our two great peoples to work together in friendship for peace and prosperity for the Pacific and for all people in the world."

New Reactor Could Bring Cheap Fuel

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — President Nixon says a new test facility under construction at the Hanford Atomic Works gives promise of producing abundant nuclear energy that is both inexpensive and nonpolluting as measured against the use of fossil fuels for power generation.

He said the work is being undertaken by the Atomic Energy Commission in cooperation with the electric power industry, which he said has pledged $200 million to support a demonstration plant in the largest single commitment to research and development in its history.

The power industry's response to development of a prototype fast breeder reactor has been so encouraging, the President said, that the federal government's program to develop a new generation of nuclear reactors will be expanded.

Two prototypes will be developed by 1980, Nixon said, but he declined to say where the prototypes will be located.

"We're not ready to drop the other shoe yet and say where," Nixon told a crowd of 14,000 at the atomic works near here Sunday. "But this area has so many brains it has a role to play."

Nixon made the announcement as he stopped off in this Central Washington city en route to Anchorage, Alaska, and his meeting with Emperor Hirohito of Japan, whose nation has been the only country to suffer the fury of the atomic bomb.

The new facility—known as a liquid metal fast breeder reactor, LMFR—converts uranium into plutonium during the process of nuclear fission.

Some of the uranium is expended in fission process, but more plutonium is produced at the same time. It is then used for fuel. The process, which depends more on plutonium for fission than current reactors, thus is constantly renewing its fuel supply in part.

Not Aware of Unauthorized Welding

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Henry Jones of Fort Worth, vice president of the contracts department of General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., testified this week that he was not aware of any unauthorized welding by General Dynamics' "sister" companies on parts for the F111 fighter-bomber.

Jones also testified that General Dynamics agreed to bear the cost of scrapping 25 faulty carry-through plates made by Selb Manufacturing Co. of Walnut Ridge, Ark., because "we had information that our inspector in residence (at Selb) had authorized this welding."

Jones was referring to Joseph Roy Spear of Dallas, Tex., former vendor quality control representative for General Dynamics, who is one of seven persons charged with conspiring to defraud the government by hiding defects in parts made by Selb under subcontract to General Dynamics for the F111. Spear has not come to trial.

In a story, The Associated Press erroneously identified the person Jones was referring to as James L. Townley of Hurst, Tex., who was acquitted on conspiracy charges in February.

Defense attorneys in the trial of Harry C. Bass Jr. of St. Louis in U.S. District Court here have contended that Spear was told by his superiors at General Dynamics to allow the welding to be done.

Welding allegedly weakens a part by 10 per cent.

Testimony in the trial of Bass is to continue Monday. The was in recess Thursday.

SEARCY, Ark. (AP)— Pros. Atty. Gene Raff of Helena said Sunday that he will file two charges of involuntary manslaughter Monday in connection with the death of a Heber Springs man and his daughter.

The bodies of Dave Hurst, 53, of Heber Springs and his 11-year-old daughter Sandra were found floating in the Little Red River near Pangburn (White County) Saturday.

Raff said autopsies showed that the two were dead before they hit the water. They were apparently hit by a car.

The two apparently had been fishing on a bridge over the river. Officials said they found a man's cap, a pair of glasses and broken fishing gear belonging to Hurst on the bridge.

Priest to Don Forbidden Gear
SAN YSIDRO, Calif. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest who works with striking farm workers has again donned a serape vestment that his bishop had forbidden him to wear.

The Rev. Victor Salandini said Mass for members of Cesar Chavez' AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee Sunday in a serape bearing UFWOC's black eagle emblem.

Father Salandini, who recently was suspended for a week, partly for wearing the unorthodox vestment, said he used it again because Bishop Leo T. Maher of San Diego "told me he would support the striking workers with food and he didn't keep his word."

Bishop John R. Quinn said Maher, who is on vacation, had encouraged gifts of food in the parishes.

"I think the bishop's interest in the workers also is indicated by the fact that he freed Father Salandini from other duties so he could work full time with the workers this summer," he said.

Obituaries

WILLIAM TERRY FEILD

William Terry Feild, aged 91, a retired civil and industrial engineer who was a member of a pioneer Little Rock family, died Friday at a Little Rock nursing home.

Mr. Feild and his twin brother, Talbot Feild of Texarkana, who survives him, were born February 17, 1880, to Mr. and Mrs. Silas Talbot Feild, who came to Little Rock in 1842 from Tennessee.

The brothers were well-known for celebrating their birthdays each year by riding "Gay Nineties" Columbia bicycles, with one big wheel and one little one, on the streets of Little Rock. They did this as late as two years ago, when they were photographed together riding down Scott Street.

Mr. Feild was graduated in 1906 from the University of Arkansas, where he was charter member No. 1 of Gamma Upsilon Chapter of Sigma Nu fraternity. "When I was initiated they used to brand Sigma Nu's on the arm," he said in an interview a few years ago. "I've still got it," he said, patting his left arm.

Mr. Feild frequently attended national Sigma Nu conventions, beginning in 1904. In 1964, he took his Columbia bicycle to the national convention at New Orleans and a photograph of him riding it appeared on the front page of the New Orleans Times-Picayune. The Times-Picayune described Mr. Feild, then 84, as "one of the liveliest delegates" at the convention.

Mr. Feild and his wife, the former Nelle C. Trimble of Lonoke, were married March 29, 1915. They lived at 1522 State Street for more than 50 years before moving to a nursing home.

Feild's engineering firm, Associated Industrial Engineers, had its office in North Little Rock. He was a charter member of the Little Rock Engineers Club, a member of Christ Episcopal Church, the Scimitar Shrine and the Little Rock Kiwanis Club.

Other survivors are a son, Col. Terry T. Feild with the Army at Arlington, Va.; a daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Feild Dunlap of Alamogordo, N.M., and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 3 p.m. Monday at Christ Episcopal Church by Rev. Rufus J. Womble. Burial will be in Mount Holly Cemetery by Healy and Roth.

Republicans to Divide Up State

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Charles T. Bernard of Earle, chairman of the state Republican party, announced Saturday that the GOP would divide the state into 14 districts for the popular election of delegates next year to the Republican National Convention.

Bernard made the announcement following a meeting of the state Republican Executive Committee.

Bernard said each of the districts would name one delegate. The state party is to have 18 delegates to the convention, and the State Committee will meet to decide how the four non-elected delegates will be selected.

A law voted by the 1971 state legislature requires the political parties to select 80 per cent of their convention delegates by popular vote in an election that is to be held in June in conjunction with the regular Arkansas primaries.

The law poses a problem for the Democrats, since they are supposed to certify their delegates to the Democratic National Convention seven days before the election.
Odell Pollard of Searcy, former chairman of the state GOP, said following the meeting Saturday that he thought a special legislative session would be needed to straighten out the problem for the Democrats. But Democratic leaders have said they are confident the national party will allow late certification of the state party's delegates.

PREJUDICE LOSES OUT, ALMOST TWO TO ONE

Dear Helen:
You made an ignorant prediction when you said that the majority of people who answered the letter from "Non-Prejudiced" would agree with her that a boy and a girl of different races can be friends.

I say hurray for the "Archers Bunkers." It's too darn bad there can't be more of them. Then maybe we'd see an end to the pinkos and bleeding hearts who spout equality. I'm for God, my Country and the American Way Of Life, and if God had meant blacks, reds, yellows to mingle with us, He'd have made them all one color-white! You Commies would wreck this country, accepting half-breed mongrels, the results of these "friendships." — D.

P.S. You won't print this, just as you won't tell the truth about how many similar letters you got. You newspaper people are all alike - slanting the news, or "censoring" letters like mine that tell the TRUTH!

Dear D:
I had to censor the language a bit, but truly, I wouldn't MISS printing your letter! Nor will I dignify it with an answer, except to say that my prediction came true-though of course you won't believe me.

Letters in favor of friendships across the lines outnumbered those against, two to one. Keep in mind "Non-Prejudiced" said FRIENDSHIP, not marriage or even falling in love. And if you think such a thing doesn't exist between boy and girl, you don't know today's generation - whose members value mental closeness almost more than the physical kind (because it's harder to achieve, perhaps). Samples:

Dear Helen:
When will people learn that a person's race or color has nothing to do with his personality. He's a human being first.

For the first time in our South Carolina town, a black guy will be student body president. He's a wonderful, friendly person. There was bad-mouthing from some kids, but from the start we knew he was our man and he'll be a great, hard-working president! —ANOTHER NOT-PREJUDICED

Dear Helen:
I agree entirely with "Non-Prejudiced" that black, white or any color can be friends. I am an only child and had a great need for a brother or sister. Well, now I have myself a brother. He's 18, kind, understanding, the realest guy I know.

We consider ourselves sister and brother because of our close relationship. I speak of my brother often to friends, and when they meet him, they're shocked - but not for long - to see he is black.

To me, color makes NO difference. —PROUD COLOR-BLIND GIRL.
Dear Helen:

I was a Japanese war bride back in the '40s. The misery of prejudice lasted only a short while-until my husband's family and friends got to know me. Now, all around me I see Oriental-white marriages. Resistance seems more with Orientals than with whites these days.

If two people are strong in their love and in their faith that those who count will understand and accept, they'll make it, regardless of color.

No matter what race the boy is that our daughter wants to date or marry, if he is a fine person, we'll remember our wonderful marriage, and be proud. —ONE WORLD

Dear Helen:
Both societies are not very tolerant of mixed couples, even if they are tolerant of each other's societies. This will probably change about the time a black-bird mates with the oriole in the

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This is the season when the television audience is supposed to be sampling the new shows and establishing new viewing habits. The networks are thus reluctant to pre-empt regularly scheduled shows for special programs for the next month or so—a critical period when the annual ratings race is at top speed.

The weekend, however, brought a couple of treats.
CBS invaded the Sunday afternoon precinct which is almost completely reserved for sports events and old movies with a "Young People's Concert" consisting of Bartok's "Concerto for Orchestra" played by the New York Philharmonic. The orchestra was conducted by violinist Yehudi Menuhin, who described the work and reminisced about the composer. He lacks the wit and drama of Leonard Bernstein as commentator but he kept his remarks short, with the result there was more time than usual for the music.

ABC presented the first Jacques Cousteau special of the season on Sunday night. It was a handsome and unusual study of the Sea Otter, seen mostly as it frolicked and hunted food on the ocean floor.

Cousteau and company filmed northern sea otters in the frigid water. They moved south to the California coast and filmed them amid undersea forests of kelp, made friends by feeding some of the bolder ones and were even able to show their courting and mating rituals.

Cousteau's gentle philosophizing about the importance of preserving the "chain of nature" was extremely effective. He used as illustration the vital relationship among kelp, the otter and sea urchins, the latter's favorite food, to illustrate the need of maintaining a delicate balance.

Scientists and concerned civilians talked of the enemies of the otters and the need of protecting them. Commercial fishermen, who maintain the mammals are destroying the abalone, also had their say. One felt certain that Cousteau was on the side of the otters in the controversy.

There is evidence that the terrible-tempered Archie Bunker of CBS' "All in the Family" may have simmered down over the summer. In Saturday night's show he was erupting over modern art instead of some ethnic group and, most of the time, he was as funny and lovable as he has been ignorant

Big Play Just Didn't Happen

By HARRY KING

Associated Press Writer
FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The Arkansas Razorbacks spent the second half Saturday waiting for a big play that never happened.

Waiting for the play that would take the momentum away from upstart Tulsa. Tulsa, inept in the first half and behind 20-0 at intermission, took the fight to the seventh-ranked Razorbacks in the second half and emerged a 21-20 winner.

Tulsa Coach Claude Gibson called the victory the greatest in Tulsa history.

When the third quarter started, writers in the press box were waiting for the clinching score so they could begin work on their leads. It never came.

When Todd Starks threw 23 yards to Dave Stewart for Tulsa's first touchdown early in the fourth quarter, it was obvious that an Arkansas turnover would put the visitors back in the game.

When Dickie Morton fumbled two plays later, Tulsa had its turnover. Five plays later Starks passed nine yards to Drew Pearson for a touchdown and Arkansas was staggering.

Tulsa's drive for the winning touchdown started at its own 18 but covered 111 yards because of penalties and a nine-yard loss. Starks completed four passes for 91 yards in the drive, including a 21-yarder to Larry Frey for the score when Tulsa faced second and goal from the Arkansas 21.

At that point, Arkansas quarterback Joe Ferguson had thrown only four passes in the second half. Ferguson completed 10 of 15 in the first half.

"What you do is play cautious if you feel like you've got the ballgame won," said Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles. "You're not as effective when you're cautious. The defenders must be reckless to be effective."

Broyles said the Razorbacks tried to keep the ball on the ground and run out the clock in the second half. However, Arkansas was unable to control the ball because of Tulsa's defense and an injury to tailback Jon Richardson.

Often, Tulsa lined up with only three down linemen. The Hurricane was willing to concede Arkansas the middle to protect the outside and cover Arkansas' receivers.

Richardson, who had gained more than 250 yards in the first two games, was hurt in the second quarter and left the game in the third period. He returned later, but was limping. Without Richardson, Arkansas was unable to run effectively against Tulsa.

Broyles revealed Sunday that Richardson had fractured a small bone in his foot and may be out for as long as four weeks.

Arkansas scored on three of its seven possessions in the first half. Fullback Skipper DeBorde went over twice from one yard out and Ferguson floated a nine-yarder to Mark Hollingsworth for the other score.

Arkansas stopped itself twice in the first half by losing fumbles and one possession ended when Bill McClard missed a 39-yard field goal attempt against a stiff wind.

"We could have kept the game in the first half except for some mistakes," Broyles said. "Arkansas had the wind in the third quarter but failed to score. For one thing Tulsa put

Palmer Joins the 20 Game Magic Circle

By BERT ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Sports Writer
"Winning this game was very important to me," said Baltimore's Jim Palmer after beating Cleveland 5-0 and joining teammates Mike Cuellar, Pat DeJohn and Dave McNally as 20-game winners this season. "Look, when the other guys win 20, I look bad if I don't," added Palmer. "Can't you just see what would happen next in the third quarter with the wind?" Broyles said. "What we weren't counting on was that their offense would do an about face and control the ball."

Broyles said he did not think Arkansas was over confident despite being an overwhelming favorite. "I believe we were prepared," Broyles said. "The first half proved that."

"Anytime you play as many sophomores as we are you can expect to make mistakes," Broyles said. "We made mistakes the first two weeks but we were able to overcome them."

Palmer pitched brilliantly Sunday, thwarting the Indians on three hits and nine strikeouts in raising his record to 20-9 and making the Orioles only the second team in major league history to have four 20-game winners in the same season.

The other was the 1920 Chicago White Sox, who had Urban Faber, Claude Williams, Dick Kerr and Ed Cicotte reach the coveted 20-victory circle.

Elsewhere in the AL, Sunday, New York edged Detroit 3-2; Oakland blanked Milwaukee 7-0; Chicago defeated California 6-5 in 10 innings; Boston trounced Washington 8-1; and Minnesota and Kansas City split a doubleheader, the Twins winning the opener 6-2 and the Royals taking the nightcap 5-3.

Palmer, in becoming a 20-game winner for the second consecutive year and the eighth 20-game winner in the AL this season, checked the Indians on singles by Chris Chambliss in the second inning and Vada Pinson in the fourth, and a double by Fred Stanley in the fifth. He walked only two in pitching the Orioles to their eighth straight victory and saddling the Indians with their sixth loss in a row.

The Orioles broke open the game with three runs in the seventh inning off Alan Foster, 8-12. Merv Rettenmund's single, Ellie Hendricks' double and an intentional walk to Dave Johnson filled the bases with one out. Mark Belanger's sacrifice fly delivered the first run. A double by Palmer sent in the second run, and Johnson scored the third on a wild pitch.

Brooks Robinson's two-run single in the eighth completed the scoring.

Detroit's Mickey Lolich, the winningest pitcher in the majors, failed for the second straight time to win his 26th game as the Yankees overcame the Tigers' stubby left-hander on Rusty Torres' two-run homer, his first in the big leagues, and Roy White's tie-breaking homer in the sixth inning.

However, Lolich, 25-13, struck out 10, boosting his season's total to 301—a club record and tying him with Oakland's Vida Blue for the American League lead. It was his 44th start, equalling the team record.

Blue, Oakland's dazzling southpaw, gained his 24th victory—his first since Aug. 29—pitching seven scoreless innings as the A's beat Milwaukee for their 99th triumph of the season. Blue, 24-8, and the league leader in earned run average with a 1.82 mark, allowed three hits, struck out four for a season's total of 301 and didn't walk anyone.

Jim Grant held the Brewers hitless over the final two innings, completing the three-hit shutout.

The A's Reggie Jackson took over the undisputed AL home run lead, blasting his 31st, a two-run shot in the seventh inning. Sal Bando and Dave Duncan added solo homers for the West Division champions, who began the league playoffs against the Orioles at Baltimore on Oct. 2.

Home runs by Rico Petrocelli and Reggie Smith backed the four-hit pitching of Jim Lonborg as the Red Sox won their sixth straight game and nine in Weston, Rusty Quillen, Mike Waters, and anchor end Rodney Steele.

Hopefully, the Cats will build more confidence and work harder to beat Malvern, there, next Friday night in another crucial 7AA district meeting.

The B-game at Ashdown tonight has been canceled, so the next game is Thursday night when the Bobkittens travel to Camden for a game at 7:30 p.m.

Scoring once in the third quarter on a pass to Jerrel Coleman and once in the last segment on a seven yard run by Tommy Miller the Cats wound up with one of the biggest wins over Fairview in quite a while.

As far as moving the ball Hope had one of their best nights with the offensive line firing off the line and opening up large holes for the backs to shoot through. Deserving a lot of credit are linemen Mike Downs, Tim White, Lynn Norton, Richard Butler, Rodney Burke, David Huddleston, and Ricky Hart.

Defensive standouts include just about everyone—Norton, Downs, Wheelington, Bubba Powers, Ralph Martin, Kenneth Ellis, Wade Harris, Melvin Doug Griffin added four hits for the red-hot Red Sox.

The White Sox overcame California when Bill Melton dashed home from third base with two out in the 10th inning on a passed ball by Johnny Stephenson.

Melton opened the 10th with a walk, advanced to second on Rick Reichardt's single, moved to third on a force out and scored on Stephenson's passed ball.

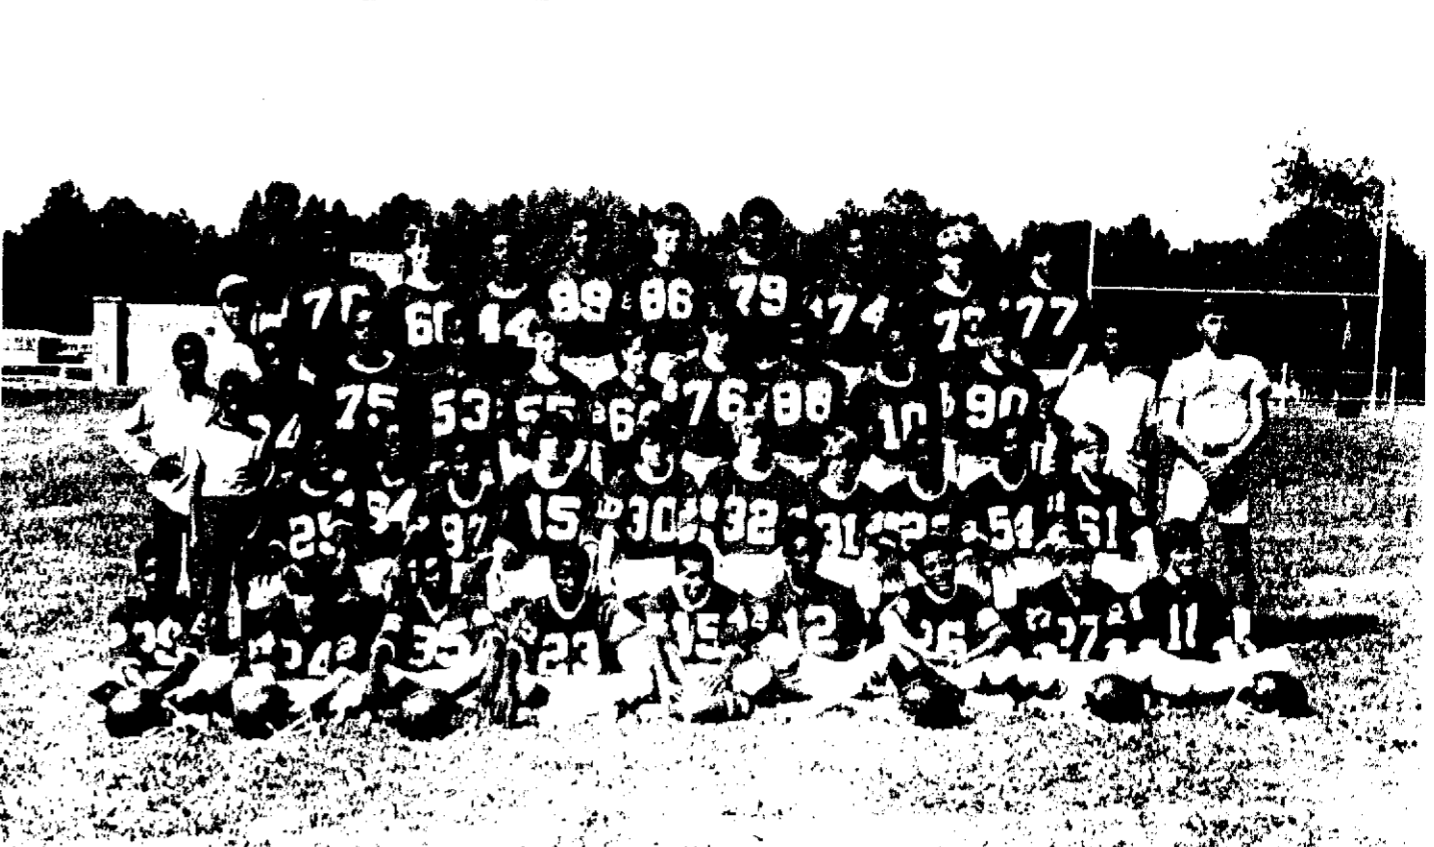

Reichardt triggered a five-run Chicago seventh with his 19th homer. Ken McMullen, honored by California fans before the game, hit his 21st homer, the most of his career, with one on in the fourth.

Harmon Killebrew's two-run homer, his 28th of the season and the 515th of his career, helped Minnesota beat Kansas City in their first game. Jim Perry, who gained his 17th victory, combined with Tom Hall for a six-hitter.

In the nightcap, the Royals wrapped it up with four runs in the fifth inning. Paul Schaal keyed the rally with a two-run double and scored on Joe Keough's single.

The games were the final ones to be played in Kansas City's Municipal Stadium. Next season, the Royals will play their home games in the new Harry F. Truman sports complex.

Home Teams Prove to Be Good Hosts

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer
It was a bad day to stay home—particularly if you happened to be a National Football League club in Baltimore or Minnesota.

In nine of Sunday's dozen games the home team proved itself the perfect host by offering a victory to the visitor—and no guest was more gracious in accepting the hospitality than Cleveland.

"When the defense gives you the ball that many times, you have to do something with it," Browns quarterback Bill Nelsen observed.

He and running back Leroy Kelly did just enough with it, knocking off the defending champion Baltimore Colts 14-13.

Like the Colts, Minnesota's powerful Vikings had escaped the stunning series of surprises a weekend ago when a spate of favorites fell on opening day.

But young Kent Nix, the 1971 version of ol' George Blanda, came rushing to the rescue for the second week in a row with a pair of fourth-quarter touchdown tosses as the Chicago Bears victimized the Vikes 20-17.

HITTING —Dick Dietz, Giants, hit a grand slam home run and drove in five runs to give San Francisco a crucial 12-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Dallas devastated Philadelphia 42-7, Washington walloped the New York Giants 30-3, Miami mauled Buffalo 29-14, Kansas City clipped Houston 20-16, Detroit dumped New England 34-7, San Francisco slapped New Orleans 38-20 and Oakland silenced San Diego 34-0.

Los Angeles escaped with a last-second 20-20 tie against invading Atlanta and, in the only two home triumphs, Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati 21-10 and Green Bay defeated Denver 34-13.

The New York Jets take on the Cardinals in St. Louis in tonight's nationally televised (ABC, 9 p.m., EDT) clash.

Baltimore quarterbacks Earl Morrall and Johnny Unitas presented Cleveland's defenders with five passes and the rest of the Colts chipped in with three fumbles as the Browns held the Super Bowlers to just 178 yards on the ground and in the air to maintain their record of having never lost in Baltimore.

Harris Wins in Sudden Death Play

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
ROBINSON, Ill. (AP) — "I think there's a certain amount of fate involved."

Big Labron Harris was talking about his sudden death playoff victory over Bert Yancey for the $20,000 first prize in the Robinson Open golf tournament, Harris' first triumph in seven years on the pro tour.

"If you're going to win, you're going to win," Harris said Sunday after canning a five-foot birdie putt on the third playoff hole.

"That is, if you've got the game. And I think I have a game capable of winning. I've been in position to win several times, so I think that shows I have the game. Then you have to have the right attitude."

"I think I went into this playoff with the right attitude."

Harris, a 6-foot-4 Oklahoma State graduate, caught the front-running Yancey with an eight foot birdie putt on the 17th hole of regulation play, then preserved the tie when he made a par putt of four feet after missing the green on the final hole.

He and Yancey each had four-under-par 67s in their final round over the 6,585 yard Crawford County Country Club course and finished at 274, 10 under par.

Yancey collected $11,400 from the total purse of $100,000 for his second place finish.

Larry Hinson, Jim Colbert and Gay Brewer were next, tied at 276. Hinson had a 67, Colbert 68 and Brewer 69 in the final 18 of the 36 hole wind-up, forced when Saturday's play was washed out.

$2,000 Top Award in Bass Tourney

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Wesley Fredieu of Many, La., won the $2,000 top prize awarded to the national bass champion at the Third Annual Grand National Bass Bonanza.

The tournament, sponsored by the American Anglers Association, ended Sunday.

Fredieu boated 40.8 pounds of fish during the two-day tournament. Tommy Patton of Texarkana was second with 38.8 pounds. He received $1,000.

Ken Barton of McAllester, Okla., and John Dixon of Bache, Okla., were first in the two-man competition with 63.12 pounds of bass. They each won $1,000.

PETRAGLIA PERSISTS

Brooklyn southpaw Johnny Petraglia continues to lead the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA) money standings despite a recent slump. Don Johnson of Akron, Ohio, is in second place.

Emotional Side Is There in Football

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"You can't ever rule out the psychological, emotional side of football," says Coach Shug Jordan of Auburn, who survived Tennessee's year-long campaign for revenge Saturday.

Claude Gibson of Tulsa probably would be the first to echo that statement after proving that a little psychology goes a long way.

After fifth-ranked Auburn nipped ninth-rated Tennessee 10-9 in an early Southeastern Conference showdown, Jordan reminded one and all that the Vols "spent the past year making preparations for the Auburn game because they rightfully concluded that our victory last year knocked them out of the national championship."

Gibson's psychology didn't take effect until the final period, when three touchdown passes by Todd Starks propelled unheralded Tulsa from a 20-point deficit to a 21-20 upset of seventh-ranked Arkansas, termed by Gibson "the greatest victory in Tulsa history."

For a week, Gibson had talked about how Tulsa would get to Arkansas quarterback Joe Ferguson even if he had to help the blitz himself. He promised Tulsa would do anything to destroy the "clean machine" label hung on Arkansas' offensive line. But when game time arrived, Tulsa never employed the blitz.

"Early last week we started a psych job on Ferguson," said Gibson, "and people were laughing at us. But I've been at this too long and I knew we had the supreme athletes to win the game. I told the men on the sidelines with 12 minutes left that we could win the ballgame. That is when Larry Frey went out there and did wonders."

Frey, a sophomore, carried 17 times for 70 yards and caught a 21-yard screen pass from Starks with 3:46 left that tied the game and set up Sam Henry's winning conversion.

Pat Sullivan drove Auburn 86 yards in the closing minutes, with Harry Unger's run with 2:44 left bringing the Tigers from behind and Gardner Jett's extra point sending Tennessee don to defeat.

Sullivan completed four passes for 75 yards en route, making good on a promise he made to the team last Monday. Jordan said Sullivan told his teammates he didn't care what the score was after the first, second or third quarters and promised them that Auburn would be ahead at the final gun.

Among the leaders in The Associated Press poll, top-rated Nebraska rolled past Texas A&M 34-7, runner-up Notre Dame recovered a fourth-period fumble in the end zone and added a two-point conversion to edge Purdue 8-7, sub quarterback Donnie Wigginton directed third-ranked Texas over Texas Tech 28-0 and No. 4 Michigan buried UCLA 38-0.

Rounding out the Top Ten, Colorado, ranked 10th, ended sixth-rated Ohio State's 19-game home winning streak 20-14 and No. 8 Alabama swamped Florida 38-0.

Nebraska relied on long gainers to turn back Texas A&M—Bill Olds' 67-yard gallop, Johnny Rodgers' 98-yard kickoff return, a 32-yard pass from Jerry Tagge to Rodgers and Bill Kosch's 95-yard scamper with an interception.

Notre Dame's hopes of beating Purdue on the road for the first time since 1961 apparently went down the drain in the Indiana rain when Pat Steenberge fumbled the ball away at the Boilermaker five-yard line with five minutes left.

Two minutes later, though Purdue punter Scott Longheed bobbled a low snap from center and was hit as he tried to pick up the slippery ball. Fred Swendsen recovered in the end zone for Notre Dame and Steenberge passed to Mike Creaney for the winning conversion.

Wigginton, replacing the injured Eddie Phillips, scored Texas' first two touchdowns on runs of 11 and six yards against Texas Tech.

Michigan's mighty defense limited UCLA to 36 yards rushing, one yard per carry, while Billy Taylor led the Wolverine offense with 96 yards and passed the 2,000 career mark.

Colorado quarterback Ken Johnson baffled Ohio State with touchdown runs of seven and 49 yards. Cliff Branch, sped 69

The order of finish behind the 1970 Grand National champion Isaac at Martinsville sounded like a who's who in Dixie racing.

Robby Allison, a $194,000 winner this year, was second in a Mercury, one lap behind; Richard Petty, NASCAR's only one million dollar winner, was third, while Charlie Glotzbach and Donnie Allison came in fourth and fifth, respectively.

Hulme's victory at Edmonton was his 19th in Can-Am racing in five seasons and the $18,000 in prize money carried him past the $400,000 mark for this series alone.

He almost didn't make it however. Stewart, the wily Scot who set out at the start of the season to throw a monkey wrench in McLaren's domination of the series, led most of the way until he spun off the course. He lost 26 seconds getting his car back into action, but Hulme already had disappeared towards victory circle.

Wins Only 2 Auto Races This Year

By BLOYS BRITT

AP Auto Racing Writer

Butch Hartman won only two auto races this year, the first one he entered and the last one, but today he is the stock car champion of the United States Auto Club.

Hartman, 31, of North Zanesville, Ohio, drove a Dodge to victory in the Pennsylvania 500 at Mount Pocono, Pa. Saturday to pick up about $15,000 in prize money—the largest single payoff in his spotty career—and earned enough points to beat out perennial champion Roger McCluskey of Tucson, Ariz. for the driving title.

Meantime, Bobby Isaac returned to action after setting 28 land speed records in Utah, to win the 250-mile race for NASCAR Grand Title Sedans at Martinsville, Va.

Denis Hulme, who had suffered the agony of defeat in a dozen outings since early June, finally got his team McLaren untracked Sunday and won the eighth race in the 1971 Can-Am series at Edmonton, Alta. in Canada.

He was home free after leader Jackie Stewart spun his Lola Chevrolet 11 laps from the finish, allowing Hulme to triumph for the first time since the series opened June 19.

A 300-mile race for Indianapolis-type cars was postponed at Trenton, N.J. because of rain. The Marlboro-300 was reset for next Sunday.

Hartman, who races only part time while operating a truck-sales agency in Ohio, led 131 of the 200 laps in the Penn 500 and counted among his victims such notables as A. J. Foyt, Bobby and Al Unser, Gary Bettenhausen and Leroy Yarborough, winner of $500,000 on Southern tracks.

BOB RILEY

"Permissive Generation Invites Defeat," headlines taken from a current issue of the Memphis "Commercial Appeal," was the basis of a talk by Lt. Gov. Bob Riley before the Hope Rotary Club Friday, September 24 in the Town and Country. The program was arranged by Bob Gullet, who introduced Dr. Riley.

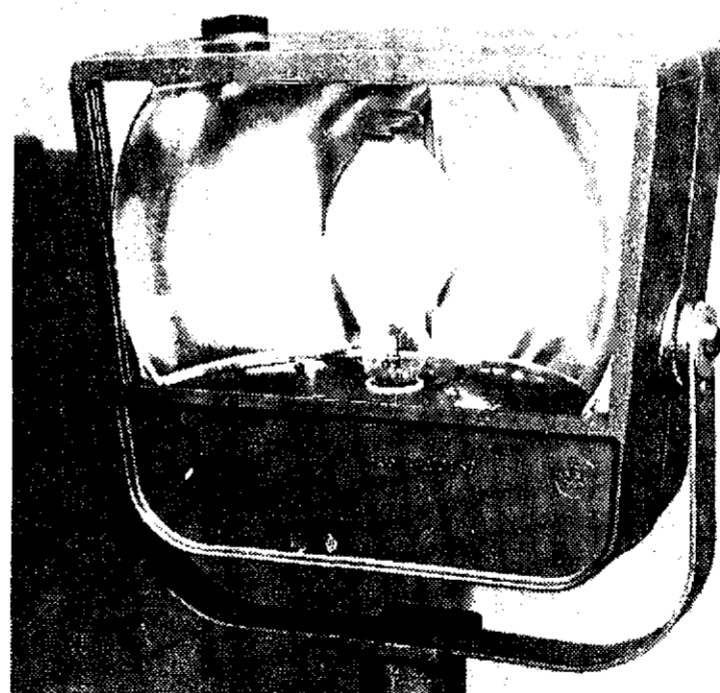

The speaker emphasized the duty and the opportunity of each individual to serve his city, state, nation and world, and he said that duty often presents itself and should be performed to the best of our ability. In fact, if we allow the erosion of the human spirit to continue at its present pace by those of us who avoid meeting our duties and obligations, then we are headed for oblivion.

By the individual doing his duty and trying to benefit by constructive criticism, problems can be met with successful solutions.

President Sam W. Strong welcomed the members and guests that included the speaker Donal Parker, Talbot Field, Jr. and State Trooper Harry Zeiner and he called a short board meeting after the club was dismissed.

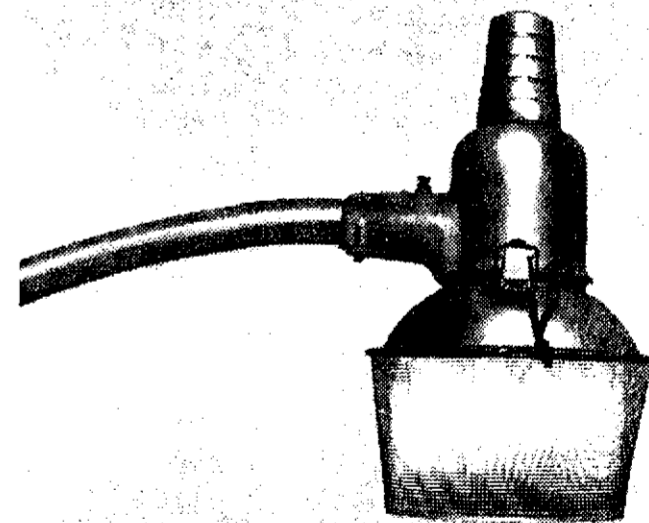

Announcing our new dusk-to-dawn floodlighting service.

The 400 watt mercury vapor floodlight is for general lighting or building floodlighting. Only $7.50 per month.

The 1000 watt mercury vapor floodlight suitable for larger areas such as building exteriors, parking lots and recreational areas. Only $12.00 per month.

The mercury vapor Nightwatcher is for general lighting, especially popular in backyard and neighborhood areas. There are several sizes and charges available to meet your needs: 100-watt, $2.50 per month; 175 watt, $3.00 per month; 250 watt, $3.50 per month; and 400-watt, $4.35 per month. Nearly 50,000 Nightwatchers are now in service.

Nobody ever said that just one outdoor light was enough for all situations. Or one kind of light either. AP&L agrees.

We have just added a new floodlighting service to our Nightwatcher lighting program.

You can now select the type and size of dusk to dawn fixture best suited to your lighting needs whether you require area lighting or floodlighting.

Even when you are away, dusk to dawn lights turn themselves on and off automatically, discouraging vandalism. Dusk to dawn lights illuminate hard to see objects and reduce accidents. They extend daylight hours for work and play.

Our new dusk to dawn floodlighting service is unmetered. All you pay is your monthly service charge that is added to your bill each month. AP&L provides the current installs and maintains the fixture and replaces the lamp when necessary, without extra charge.

Call your local AP&L office today and see how easy it is to obtain our new lighting service.

NOTE: All charges quoted above are for lighting only. Installation is included for all fixtures.

Meet Called Hope High Work-Training Program to Quell Violence

By COLIN FROST

Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The prime ministers of Britain, Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic meet today in an effort to defuse growing violence in Ulster, but all three caution against any quick solution.

Britain's Edward Heath is hosting the talks at his country estate, Chequers outside London. He hopes to find some common ground between Northern Ireland's Brian Faulkner and Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic.

The turmoil in the British province has cost 110 dead and hundreds wounded in the past two years. Those killed include 24 British soldiers sent to Ulster to keep the peace.

The rate of killing—more than 50 in the past two months—has increased drastically as the urban guerrillas of the outlawed Irish Republican Army have stepped up their campaign for a united Ireland.

The guerrillas have sworn that predominantly Protestant Northern Ireland must be merged with Lynch's republic, which is 95 per cent Roman Catholic.

Lynch said Sunday he expects nothing spectacular to result, but added he is optimistic. "What we are looking for," he said, "is some means of opening the way to peace in the north and, I hope, the ultimate unification of Ireland."

He said he would be willing to return for similar talks "even if these talks go against me." Today's session is the first of its kind since 1925, when the border between Northern Ireland and the republic was defined.

British officials said Heath has no new ideas to offer in the talks.

They gave the impression that Heath will be happy if the session reaches Tuesday's scheduled close without any explosive walkouts.

On the eve of the three-way talks, Faulkner's government was shaken by a key minister's walkout. Community Relations Minister David Bleakley quit to protest the government's internment without trial of suspected IRA terrorists. Lynch also opposes internment.

Crime Institute to Louisville

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — A crime prevention institute will open its doors at the University of Louisville Kentucky next week.

Its dean, John C. Klotter, said he decided to start the institute after visiting eight U.S. police departments and finding not one person responsible for crime prevention.

Twenty-seven officers in the first three-week course will study burglar alarms, security systems, architecture (police should be consulted, he believes), lighting, closed-circuit television monitors, race relations and theft insurance.

What happens when you're offered $16,000 for your $22,400 pile of ashes?

You take it if you haven't increased your home insurance to keep pace with inflation.

This is the kind of problem you could face if you bought and insured your home for $16,000 in 1963. See me to find out if your home is insured for its full value. I'll tell you about a low-cost State Farm Homeowners Policy that will insure your home for all it's worth — and keep it that way with automatic inflation coverage.

Hope High Work-Training Program

Hope High School is beginning its second year of the Exemplary Work-Training Program. Chosen one of eight such programs in the state, they are attempting to prepare youths for the working world.

Many local employers are cooperating with Program Counselor Jim Bullock and his staff, Jim Caudle, Coordinator for Exemplary Programs and Miss Carol Lester Home Economics teacher.

Mr. Bullock stated that last year there were 60 students participating in the program, these students earned in excess of $50,000 during the school year. Ten of the graduating students became permanent employees at their work stations.

The program assist youngsters in finding suitable Work-Training Stations where he or she can be an asset to the production force, themselves, and the community. They attend school one half of the day then spend half of the day on the Work-Training Station, receiving credit for both.

Mr. Bullock said the Federal Program pays 76 per cent of the cost of the program for the first two years, then 50 per cent for the third, and 35 per cent thereafter. Any employer who is interested in this program or wishes more information should call Mr. Bullock's office at the high school.

Women Silent on Possible Appointment

By ANN BLACKMAN

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The three women President Nixon has appointed to the federal bench are exercising judicious, if not judicial, discretion, each declining to comment on her chances of becoming the first female Supreme Court justice.

Although no one can be sure of the President's support, Mrs. Nixon told reporters Thursday she was "talking it up" with her husband to appoint a woman to the high court. She mentioned that the President had appointed three women to federal courts—Cornelia G. Kennedy of the U.S. District Court in Michigan and Sylvia Bacon and Normalie Holloway Johnson, both of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia.

In case "they don't get one this time," Mrs. Nixon said, "they're grooming them. They'll be moved up to other courts."

The next day, Mrs. Nixon said the White House is giving careful consideration to the idea of a woman on the court but added: "The trouble is, the best qualified women are too old."

In addition to the three women singled out by Mrs. Nixon, others being mentioned in speculation include Shirley M. Hufstetler, who as a member of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals is the nation's highest-ranking woman judge; Rita Hauser, a New York Republican once named by Nixon as a United Nations representative, and Mary Gardner Jones, a member of the Federal Trade Commission.

President Nixon, asked Thursday night about the possibility of appointing a woman, told the Detroit Economic Club that he is more interested in a candidate's judicial philosophy than anything else, and reiterated that he wants nominees who are "strict constructionists" of the Constitution.

Judge Kennedy, 48, of Grosse Pointe Woods was the first woman in Michigan history appointed to the federal bench. She is regarded by her colleagues as a moderate in her application of the law.

Asked whether she thinks women have been discriminated against in the field of law, Judge Kennedy said, "Sometimes a woman has to be more fully prepared and has to do a lot better than a man, but personally I've been fortunate."

Judges Bacon and Johnson were both appointed to the District of Columbia court a year ago.

Judge Bacon, 40 and Republican, was executive assistant to the U.S. attorney here when she moved to the bench.

She said she is "particularly concerned about the lack of public confidence in the court system, that the courts are bearing the brunt of a certain amount of antiestablishment feeling."

A petite, attractive woman, Judge Bacon said of speculation that she is among those being considered for the high court, "I don't believe in a woman's seat" on the Supreme Court or any court, but I do believe they should have an opportunity to serve if legally qualified—and I have no doubt there are qualified women."

Judge Johnson, whose chamber is two doors away from Judge Bacon's, was an assistant corporation counsel for the District of Columbia before being appointed to Superior Court.

A Democrat and black, she's 39 and married to Asst. U.S. Atty. Julius A. Johnson.

She refused to comment on any aspect of her legal philosophy or on appointment to the Supreme Court.

"At this point," she said, "I'm better off saying nothing."

the South Vietnamese. The apparent military object is to drive South Vietnamese troops from defensive positions along Highways 1, 7 and 22 along the border with Cambodia.

North Vietnamese troops from two divisions pounded 11 South Vietnamese positions and one U.S. base on the Vietnamese side of the border Sunday from dawn to dusk with up to 1,000 rounds of rockets and mortars. They followed up two of the attacks with infantry and sapper assaults.

The attacks were the heaviest in the border region in nearly four months.

Field reports said about 20 South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and three to four times as many wounded. Seven Cambodian and a handful of American troops were wounded.

The Saigon command said 58 North Vietnamese troops were killed.

Officers in the field said that the South Vietnamese had held all of their positions and that enemy action had died down this morning.

Most of the attacks centered in and around the Cambodian town of Krek on Highway 7, five miles from the border. South Vietnamese officers said every position along the road was attacked.

The South Vietnamese are positioned there to keep North Vietnamese forces from infiltrating into South Vietnam's 3rd Military Region to disrupt the presidential election next Sunday. The 3rd Region includes Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces.

The heavy shelling attacks indicated that the North Vietnamese were trying to keep Saigon troops pinned down and diverted while they slipped infiltrators across the border.

U.S. rocket-firing helicopter gunships, tactical fighter-bombers and artillery joined in support of the South Vietnamese, bombarding enemy gun sites and troop positions.

U.S. B52 bombers also carried out raids against North Vietnamese supply depots to the rear.

One American officer said the attacks "are probably connected with the election, the demonstrations in Saigon and the mood. Now is the time for the enemy to gain."

Groups Wants Peek at GOP Campaign Fund

By JAMES R. POLK

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Common Cause, the self-styled citizens lobby, has asked a federal court to order a former White House aide to open his records on an estimated $2 million pumped into key Republican races for the Senate last year.

Attorneys for Nixon fund-raiser Jack A. Gleason are fighting the court move with a request to curtail any pretrial questioning and keep his testimony sealed under court order. The move to open the records is part of a Common Cause suit filed against the Republican and Democratic parties to enforce present federal limits on campaign contributions and spending.

Gleason left the White House last fall to run the fund-raising effort that channeled as much as $2 million into a dozen states where GOP candidates were locked in tight races trying to win control of the Senate.

A number of President Nixon's ambassadors have been identified as donors through Gleason. Other Nixon backers, including two members of the Republican National Finance Committee, also steered money through him, according to a GOP campaign official in one key state.

Gleason's court motion two weeks ago asked the pretrial questioning be limited to the fall of 1968 when Gleason was a major Nixon presidential fundraiser as assistant chairman of the Republican National Finance Committee.

It said any deposition taken from Gleason should be sealed and then "opened only by order of the court." To do otherwise, Gleason's attorneys said, would cause him "unreasonable annoyance, embarrassment and oppression."

Common Cause, in a 10-page reply last week, said "any embarrassment which he may encounter is the product of his own efforts."

Gleason has refused to comment to newsmen on the fund-raising activities.

Common Cause is suing to try to enforce the $3-million spending limit for political committees and the $5,000 ceiling on individual contributions.

Under present practice, a number of committees are often set up for a single candidate to get around the limits. One donor, for instance, gave a total of $100,000 through 20 separate committees for a candidate in California last fall.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Locating the Trump Queen

Bridge diagram showing North, South, East, and West hands with card distributions and a trump queen location.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "When I was learning bridge you told me that I would be trying to locate the queen of trumps on thousands of occasions. You said the way to get good at the problem was to charge myself with an error every time I failed to locate it."

Oswald: "I watched a fairly good player go down at four hearts with today's hand. East won the club lead with the ace and returned the eight. West ruffed. He read the club eight as a high card and led back a spade. East took his ace and played a second spade. South won in dummy, led a low trump to the ace and played the trump king. He complained about bad luck when West showed out."

Jim: "This time it was definitely bad play that caused South to wind up in the soup. If he had put himself in East's position he would have realized that East's failure to lead a third club could only mean that East held the queen of trumps. With nothing but small trumps in his hand East would surely have led that third club."

Oswald: "East had made things easy for South. If East had led a middle sized club or even his smallest at trick two, West would have probably played a diamond. Then, South would have had to really guess in trumps and could be excused if he went wrong."

MONKEYS ARE FUNNY

PORT HARCOURT, Nigeria (AP) - There are enough problems in Port Harcourt's expensive department stores without having to put up with monkeyshines of real monkeys.

One Nigerian housewife was upset when a playful monkey perched over the store entrance and scampered off with her wig. About 10 minutes later after a merry chase witnessed by chuckling but sympathetic onlookers, the young lady retrieved her wig, put it back on and walked away unharmed but stylish again.

EARDRUM RELIEF should result from a new jet engine undergoing ground testing by NASA at Peabody, Ohio. The 22,000-pound-thrust engine developed by General Electric, is designed to operate at 15 to 20 decibels lower sound volume than the jets currently in use on airliners.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Exercise to Strengthen Muscles, but . . .

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have been underweight for most of my life and would like to know ways to gain weight. I would also like to know ways to straighten rounded shoulders.

Dear Reader—Many young people think they need to gain weight. This is usually a matter of appearance rather than strictly a matter of health. Girls want more curves in the right places and boys want to be "big and strong." Usually this leads to doing the wrong thing. Putting on a lot of unnecessary fat doesn't help the appearance and can even detract from it.

If a person is really underweight in a medical sense, then it is quite important to find out why. If it is caused by a digestive disturbance, it needs correction. If there is a chronic infection, it should be treated. Rarely, a person has an overactive thyroid that needs attention. In some ways being underweight—if one really is—deserves more attention than being overweight.

If you are healthy and just don't weigh as much as you would like, I can't really suggest doing anything more than increasing your physical activity. This will help you build good, strong muscles and strong bones and that should be your goal.

Rounded shoulders usually mean that you need to develop the muscles in the back between the shoulders. Start doing exercises that rotate the arms up, out, and back, down, and up again. Use exercises that contract the muscles in the back between the shoulders. A light set of springs that you can pull out with both arms simultaneously helps, too. Good posture also makes a difference.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Turned On" Wedding

"I do," solemnly spoken by bride and groom, is usually enough to make a legally valid marriage. But suppose one of both of the parties is "turned on," either by drugs or by alcohol. This may create a situation once described as follows by Euripides: "The tongue hath sworn, but the mind is unsworn."

Marriage is a contract—a special kind, to be sure, but a contract nonetheless. The key to a contract is mutual assent, a meeting of the minds. And a mind not competent to assent is not competent to make a contract, no matter what the tongue says.

How clear must the mind be? The law's test is whether the person is able to understand the nature of a marriage contract at the moment he says "I do." If he is not, the marriage may be annulled.

But intoxication short of that will usually be overlooked. Since the law gives matrimony the benefit of the doubt, courts generally will not grant an annulment merely because the bride or the groom was a little high.

Furthermore, even if one of the parties was indeed "out of it" at the time of the wedding, the marriage may become valid because of what happens afterward. Take this case:

A young, married girl, he secretly knew, as the driver of a pickup truck, drove past a public house where he had been drinking. He saw her in the pickup truck and pointed out that he had continued to cohabit with her for several days after he had sobered up. Result: annulment denied, because the marriage had been "ratified" by subsequent events.

When it comes to parties, although a good sleep in the wedding "chamber" is one thing, the fact that he was "out of it" on a pre-wedding party is another matter. Courts are usually lenient in such cases, but not when the bride has been deceived.

There is one more thing to be aware of. In some states, if a bride is deceived as to the identity of the groom, the marriage is void. In other states, it is voidable. In still other states, it is a ground for annulment. In still other states, it is a ground for divorce.

Sees Spending as Key to Economy

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If Congress passes the re-fashioned tax-revision bill, it will be betting that consumer spending—rather than business investment—is what the economy needs for a quick recovery.

President Nixon's recommendations emphasized swelling business cash flow in the months ahead, on grounds that orders for equipment would create a jobs soon and strengthen U.S. plants competitively for the long pull.

The extent to which the

PERSONAL FINANCE

By CARLTON SMITH

Do you know how to recognize "springers" and "flippers" when you encounter these danger signals? Clue: You meet them on your grocery shelves.

They're signs of spoilage in canned food. Knowing how to spot the symptoms of spoiled or contaminated canned foods can do a lot more than save you the cost of the food, when you find you have to dump it. It can stand between you and serious illness... even death.

You can't rely on your sense of smell and taste, no matter how keen, to detect tainted food. Botulism, the deadly poison that touched off the recent nationwide hunt for contaminated vichyssoise, can be present without affecting odor or taste.

When inspectors of the Food and Drug Administration launched their massive search for toxic cans, here's what they looked for to ferret out the potentially dangerous from among the thousands on the shelves:

The first danger signal you're likely to recognize—the most obvious—is something wrong with the shape of the can. It bulges.

A "soft swell," to the FDA inspectors, is a bulge that will give under pressure of the fingers. A "hard swell" won't give, even when considerable force is applied.

These are two of the symptoms that indicate the possibility of gas being generated inside the can, by fermentation—or something more deadly.

Another is the "springer." Press on the top of the can (or the bottom) and it goes in with a pop. Let up, and it pops out.

Similar to the springer is the "flipper." The difference is that when you press on the top, it pops in and the bottom pops out—or vice versa.

Any of these are indications of abnormal pressures within the can, and a warning that the contents may be spoiled or infected. Don't just put such a can back on the shelf; a less alert chopper may come to grief with it. Take it to the manager.

A "leaker" is a can that leaks, and not many shoppers would willingly add it to the shopping basket, but the FDA adds it to the list of danger signals to look for.

What about dented cans? A small dent in an otherwise healthy looking can probably is no cause for alarm, says an FDA expert. But a sizable dent may have fractured the lining inside the can, bringing the food into contact with bare metal. And if the affected area involves a dent in the seam, either around the top or down the side, the seam may have opened.

A rust spot on a can? It may be harmless—but there's also the possibility that it was caused by a leak. Or, even more seriously, that unhealthful contents have turned highly acid, eating through the metal.

The dented and bedraggled-looking cans you frequently see in stores on a special table, marked down because of their appearance? All right to go bargain hunting here if there's only water damage or a shallow dent. But if a can's badly dented or rusted, the buyer's taking on too much of a risk just to save a few pennies, in the opinion of the FDA expert.

TOO MANY LOSE DOGS

DALLAS (AP) — Dogs are killed by cars on streets here at a rate of 70 a day, according to J. D. Whitten, assistant superintendent of the city's sanitation department, whose responsibility is to pick up the mutilated corpses.

HOPE PARK, STAR. Printed by Offset

House Ways and Means Committee reversed the emphasis is underlined by new figures refining the first rough estimates of what would come of the committee's changes.

Instead of the $1.6-billion tax break on this year's business income that would have come from the Nixon version of the investment credit, business might have a somewhat higher, than present tax bill, resulting from the committee's changes both in the investment credit proposal and the fast-depreciation rules. The estimate is $600 million, above what existing law and rules would provide.

But where Nixon proposed no reduction in individual taxes on 1971 income, the committee wrote in cuts estimated at almost $1.4 billion.

In the years after 1973, business could be better off under the committee bill than under Nixon's. The permanent investment-credit rate would be 2 per cent higher and the restriction on fast depreciation would tend to taper off.

The marked difference comes in the tax treatment of income for 1971 and 1972, regarded as crucial years economically—and politically as well.

For 1972, the committee approved the $2.2-billion one-time individual income tax cut Nixon asked and added provisions reducing low-income taxes $1 billion for that year, more later.

One reason for the committee's favorable treatment of individuals, especially those at the low end of the income range, is concern about two developments that might pinch consumers' pocketbooks in the early months of 1972—just when it is hoped recovery will be picking up steam.

The Tax withholding tables are out of balance with present incomes and working-couple patterns, the Treasury acknowledged in testimony, and there is no chance of revising them thoroughly until next year.

Moreover, Social Security taxes go up next year even under present law.

For many, the extra tax would more than offset the modest income tax relief Nixon proposed. But the committee's reductions in individual income tax would serve as an offset, and presumably would reduce pressure to postpone the Social Security tax increases.

Stolen Car in Long Trip

EAST PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — For a month Herbert Bischoff had been worried about his stolen car, so he was happy when police called to say it had been recovered. But there's a problem: the car is in Puerto Rico.

Police weren't sure how the 1964 car, stolen from in front of Bischoff's home, wound up on the Caribbean island. But they said it was unpowered at Puerto Nuevo, and he could pick it up any time.

MRS. JOYCE WOODS

(Editor's Note: The following article appeared Sept. 14 in Journal and Courier of Lafayette-West, Lafayette, Ind. Mrs. Joyce Woods is the daughter of Johnnie Mae Young of Hope.)

Two women have joined the Purdue University staff as administrators in the dean of women's office. One is counselor Mrs. Joyce Woods who received her master's degree in education from Purdue in August.

Mrs. Woods attended Los Angeles public schools and St. Francis Nursing School before entering the University of Hawaii where she earned a B.A. degree in sociology in 1969. While in Hawaii, Mrs. Woods helped set up an ethnic studies group for the community, including Afro-American-Asian cultures, and produced instructional films for television.

In addition to scripting and producing for television, she was active in local theater and worked with slum parents and children and the Honolulu Children's Court.

Mrs. Woods entered Purdue's graduate school when a Navy engineering program brought husband, Wilnie, to Purdue. The Woods, along with their small daughter Tracey, reside in Lafayette.
